

COOKIES POLICY

What are cookies?

Like most websites, we use cookies. A cookie is a small file of letters and numbers that we may put on your computer or mobile device when you access our website. Cookies allow us to distinguish you from other users of the website, helping us to provide you with a good experience when you browse our website and also allowing us to improve our site.

With cookies, the information we collect and share is anonymous and does not personally identify you. It does not contain your name, address, telephone number, or email address.

We use cookies for a variety of reasons. For example:

- Essential cookies – these are required for the operation of our website, for example to enable you to log in to secure areas of the website.
- Analytic/performance cookies – these allow us to recognise and count the number of visitors and to see how visitors move around our website when they are using it. This helps us to improve the way our website works, for example, by ensuring that users are finding what they are looking for easily. We use Google Analytics for our web analytics.

Cookies can be set by the website you are visiting (first-party cookies) or by other websites (third-party cookies) whose content we are hosting, eg YouTube.

Controlling cookies

Most web browsers allow at least a degree of control over cookies through their settings. You can opt to receive an alert whenever a cookie is set or to disallow the setting of cookies altogether. You can also delete all existing cookies.

You can prevent the setting of cookies by adjusting the settings on your browser (see your browser Help for how to do this). Be aware that disabling cookies will affect the functionality of REDRESS's website and many other websites that you visit. For information about how to manage or delete cookies for your particular browser, please refer to the browser's help section. Alternatively you can visit www.aboutcookies.org, which has comprehensive information on how to manage cookies on a wide variety of desktop browsers.

Changes to this policy

We may update the terms of this policy at any time, so please do check it from time to time. By continuing to use our website you will be deemed to have accepted such changes.